Gender Mainstreaming and Gender Equality in Europe
Policies, Culture and Public Opinion

Vera Lomazzi, Leibniz Institute for Social Sciences and Isabella Crespi, University of Macerata

“Bridging empirical research and social policy issues, this book will enrich academics with new knowledge on legislative aspects of gender equality and make policy makers more familiar with individual attitudes to gender equality and country specifics.”
Natalia Soboleva, National Research University Higher School of Economics

“This book’s originality lies in the fact that Lomazzi and Crespi combine a critical perspective on EU-wide legislations and policies on gender equality with an empirical investigation on these policies’ impact on regional gender cultures: an important contribution to the multidimensionality of gender equality.”
Eva-Maria Schmidt, University of Vienna

With gender equality so prominent in public debate, this timely book reviews the impacts of gender mainstreaming on political, social and cultural issues around Europe.

It explores the origins and evolution of mainstreaming, the theory’s contribution to gender equality legislation so far and its potential to drive change in the future. Drawing on extensive data, the book compares and contrasts progress in various European countries, taking into account the multidimensionality of gender equality. Finally, the book considers the limits of gender mainstreaming amid economic, migration and political challenges.

This important book is a welcome contribution to discussions about gender equality in European societies looking at the interplay of policies, culture and public opinion.
Table of Contents

Introduction
1. Gender equality and gender mainstreaming: the issue of equal opportunities in the European context
2. Gender mainstreaming in Europe: legislation and cultural changes
3. Gender mainstreaming and social policies in Europe
4. Gender equality in Europe: measures and indicators
5. European gender cultures
6. Current challenges to gender mainstreaming in Europe

Conclusions

About the Author

Vera Lomazzi is a Senior Researcher at the Data Archive for Social Sciences at GESIS – Leibniz Institute for Social Sciences in Germany, and Secretary of the Executive Committee of the European Values Study.

Isabella Crespi is Associate Professor in Sociology at the University of Macerata, Italy, and member of European Sociological Association RN 13 Sociology of Families and Intimate Lives Advisory Board.

Related Titles

PB £25.99 ISBN 9781847426765
HB £70.00 ISBN 9781847426772
EPUB £24.99 ISBN 9781447321064
EPDF ISBN 9781847426789
Available on Amazon Kindle
Feb 2016

PB £25.99 ISBN 9781447325970
HB £80.00 ISBN 9781447325963
EPUB £24.99 ISBN 9781447326007
EPDF ISBN 9781447325994
Available on Amazon Kindle
Mar 2016

Find out more at policy.bristoluniversitypress.co.uk