This book is realised with the financial support of CUSMAT – Centro Universitario di Studi Marittimi Adriatico-ionici e dei Trasporti trans-europei, University of Macerata (Italy).

<https://giurisprudenza.unimc.it/cusmat>

CUSMAT was created in 2015 to give focus to an existing interest in maritime law and transport law as these subjects had always been an important feature of law at Macerata.

This Research Center aims to act as a promoter of interdisciplinary and comparative research and training activities through the interaction of policymakers, practitioners, academics, industry and commerce and in partnership with other national and international bodies and institutions operating in its research area.

It also aims to promote and organise scientific events, to participate in research projects at national and European level, and to provide legal advice on maritime affairs and transport to national and local institutions, non-governmental organizations and private entities.
