

Early Modern Narratives of Islam across Europe

Later Medieval Europe

Managing Editor

Sara M. Butler (The Ohio State University)

Editorial Board

Carrie Beneš (New College of Florida)

Jessalynn Bird (Saint Mary's College, Notre Dame)

Emily Hutchison (Mount Royal University)

Sébastien Rossignol (Memorial University of Newfoundland)

Claire Weeda (Leiden University)

VOLUME 31

The titles published in this series are listed at brill.com/lme

Early Modern Narratives of Islam across Europe

A Connected Memory

Edited by

Antonio Urquizar-Herrera

Borja Franco Llopis

Elena Paulino-Montero

BRILL

LEIDEN | BOSTON

This is an open access title distributed under the terms of the CC BY-NC 4.0 license, which permits any use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author(s) and source are credited. Further information and the complete license text can be found at <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc/4.0/>

The terms of the CC license apply only to the original material. The use of material from other sources (indicated by a reference) such as diagrams, illustrations, photos and text samples may require further permission from the respective copyright holder.

This publication is based upon work from Cost Action CA18129 ISLE Islamic Legacy: Narratives East, South, West, North of the Mediterranean (1350–1750), supported by COST (European Cooperation in Science and Technology).

COST (European Cooperation in Science and Technology, www.cost.eu) is a funding agency for research and innovation networks. Our Actions help connect research initiatives across Europe and enable scientists to grow their ideas by sharing them with their peers. This boosts their research, career and innovation.

The Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data is available online at <https://catalog.loc.gov>
LC record available at <https://lccn.loc.gov/2025034415>

Typeface for the Latin, Greek, and Cyrillic scripts: “Brill”. See and download: brill.com/brill-typeface.

ISSN 1872-7875

ISBN 978-90-04-74077-8 (hardback)

ISBN 978-90-04-74078-5 (e-book)

DOI 10.1163/9789004740785

Copyright 2026 by Antonio Urquizar-Herrera, Borja Franco Llopis and Elena Paulino-Montero.

Published by Koninklijke Brill BV, Plantijnstraat 2, 2321 JC Leiden, The Netherlands.

Koninklijke Brill BV incorporates the imprints Brill, Brill Nijhoff, Brill Schönningh, Brill Fink, Brill mentis, Brill Wageningen Academic, Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, Böhlau and V&R unipress.

Koninklijke Brill BV reserves the right to protect this publication against unauthorized use.

For more information: info@brill.com.

This book is printed on acid-free paper and produced in a sustainable manner.

Contents

List of Illustrations VII
Notes on Contributors IX

Introduction 1

PART 1

Religion

- 1 Islam in the Construction of Late Medieval and Early Modern European National Histories: a Connected Historiography across Europe 13
Antonio Urquizar-Herrera, Elias Kolovos, and Ferenc Tóth
- 2 Was Religion That Relevant? 38
Mercedes García-Arenal and Tijana Krstić
- 3 Polemics in Theology and Conversion 68
Luis F. Bernabé Pons, Kate Randazzo, and Asim Zubčević

PART 2

Permeability

- 4 Entangled Narratives: Imagining and Crossing Borders in the Mediterranean 99
Ana Struillou, Ognjen Krešić, and Elena Paulino-Montero
- 5 Christians and Muslims Looking at Each Other 133
Bruno Pomara and Housseem Eddine Chachia
- 6 Written Circulation of Islam in Europe 148
Andrzej Drozd and Katarzyna K. Starczewska

PART 3

Opposition

- 7 Tales of War: the Image of the Enemy in Christian and Ottoman Sources, 1350–1600 181
Ana Echevarría, Emir O. Filipović, and Magnus Ressel
- 8 The Habsburgs and the Different Corners of Islam in Early Modern Europe 203
Sophia Abplanalp, Rubén González Cuerva, and Evrim Türkçelik
- 9 Anti-Islamic and Islamic lieux de mémoire in Europe 228
Gabriel Pirický and Amadeo Serra Desfilis

PART 4

Images

- 10 Images of Islam in Late Medieval and Early Modern Europe 259
Borja Franco Llopis, Laura Stagno, Ivana Čapeta Rakić, Giuseppe Capriotti, and Naz Defne Kut
- 11 Granada and the Ottoman Empire: the Legacy of Granada and Ottoman Dress Images on European Court Culture and Display 296
Charlotte Colding Smith and Ana Cabrera Lafuente
- 12 Collecting and Presenting 'Islamic Art' in European Museums 323
Filiz Çakır Phillip, Helena Lahoz, Mattia Guidetti, and Alicia Miguélez
- Index 341

Illustrations

- 4.1 Chivalric scenes (fourteenth century). Hall of the Kings, Lion's palace. Alhambra Palace 105
- 4.2 Cushion of Queen Berenguela (end of thirteenth century). Colección de Telas Medievales. Las Huelgas de Burgos. Patrimonio Nacional 115
- 4.3 Details from the silken shroud with a dedication to Sultan Bayezid I, preserved in Studenica Monastery (sixteenth century) 116
- 4.4 Jerónimo Jacinto Espinosa, El milagro del Cristo del Rescate (1623). Private collection. Wikimedia Commons 120
- 4.5 Pierre Belon du Mans, Mount Athos (1553) 122
- 4.6 Pseudo-Orfelin (Zaharija), Hilandar Monastery (1779) 124
- 7.1 War of Granada: the conquest of Vélez Málaga. Choir seat by Rodrigo Duque, known as The German (1489–95), Cathedral of Toledo 186
- 7.2 Müller, Türckische Chronica, Erster Theil, fol. 26r 195
- 8.1 Lambert Wyts, Itinera in Hispaniam, Viennam et Constantinopolim, Belgium, 1573, Austrian National Library (ÖNB), Vienna, Manuscript Cod. 3325*, fol. 164r. 205
- 8.2 Salomon Schweigger, Ein neue Reyßbeschreibung auß Teutschland Nach Constantinopel vnd Jerusalem (etc.), 1608, © Austrian National Library (ÖNB), Vienna, Manuscript 35858-B, p. 94. 206
- 8.3 Sigmund Elsässer, Kolowrat-Hochzeit Codex, Innsbruck 1580, fol. 10, Schloss Ambras Collection, Innsbruck, Inv.-nr. Kunstkammer, 5269. ©KHM-Museumsverband. 217
- 8.4 Unknown, “Mondschein”, former spire of St. Stephan's Cathedral Vienna, 1514–1519, Wien Museum Inv.-Nr. 561, CC BY 4.0, Foto: Enver Hirsch, Wien Museum (<https://sammlung.wienmuseum.at/objekt/50222/>). 218
- 8.5 Indo-Portuguese tent, formerly possessed by Charles V, sixteenth century, Museum of the Army, Toledo. © Museo del Ejército. 220
- 9.1 The Battle of Mohács (1526). Ottoman miniature from the work of Celälzâde Mustafa Çelebi, Ṭabaqātu'l-Memalik ve Derecatu'l-Mesalik (List of Classes of Countries and Roads), 1575 244
- 9.2 Turbék – Sultan Süleyman's city of pilgrimage at the place of his death in Hungary (near Szigetvár). 3D reconstruction image before 1664, designed by Norbert Pap and Máté Kitanics, graphics by Hyperion Interaktív Oktatásfejlesztő KFT, Hungary, 2020 245
- 11.1 Christoph Weiditz, Costume codex, fols. 254v–55r, ink and watercolour on paper (Germanisches Nationalmuseum, Hs 22474, public domain) 306
- 11.2 Jost Amman, Costumes of the Nations of the World, 1577, etching on paper. Publisher Georg Mack, Nuremberg (British Museum 1854.1113.173) 308

- 11.3 Bartholomäus Strobel the Younger, Beheading of Saint John the Baptist and Herod's Banquet, 1630–33, oil on canvas (Museo Nacional del Prado, P001940) 310
- 11.4 Pieter Coecke van Aelst, Celebration of a Circumcision from the Frieze Ces Moeurs et fachons de faire de Turcz, woodcut, Antwerp, 1553 (Metropolitan Museum of New York, 28.85.6) 313
- 11.5 The Quest for Fodder, Tapestry in a set of the Conquest of Tunis. Designed Pieter Coecke van Aelst, ca. 1546–50. Woven under the direction of Willem de Pannemaker, Brussels, 1550–52 (Patrimonio Nacional, Madrid (TA 13/6, 10005907). 315

Notes on Contributors

Sophia Abplanalp

holds a Master's in Islamic Art History from the University of Vienna and a Master's in Art History from the University of St Andrews. Currently a PhD candidate at the University of Vienna's Chair of Cultural Heritage, her research interrogates the Türkenbeute, investigating its theoretical dimensions and evolving afterlife throughout the 18th century. Since 2020, she has contributed to the COST Action Islamic Legacy: Narratives East, West, South, North of the Mediterranean (1350–1750), serving as its Science Communication Coordinator from 2022 to 2023. Her scholarship explores topics at the juncture of cultural heritage, art history, and historiographical discourse, elucidating the entangled narratives of Central European and Ottoman material culture is Associate Professor of Early Modern Art History at University of Macerata (Italy), where he teaches Iconography and Iconology, History of Images, European Art History, and Image Education. He was Visiting Professor at University of Split (Croatia), Marie Curie Fellow Researcher at Pwani University, Kilifi (Kenya), Visiting Professor at UNED of Madrid (Spain), Marie Curie Fellow Researcher at Kenyatta University, Nairobi (Kenya), Visiting Professor at Tel Aviv University (Israel). He published several articles or books on the anti-Jewish and anti-Turkish painting and on the fortune of Ovid's Metamorphoses in art.

Giuseppe Capriotti

Houssein Eddine Chachia

is an Associate Professor of Early Modern History at the University of Tunis (Tunisia). He has served as a Visiting Professor at the University of Murcia and as a Postdoctoral Fellow at the Center for Middle Eastern Studies at Harvard University. His research focuses primarily on the Moriscos, a topic on which he has published numerous studies and books in Arabic, Spanish, and English. Dr. Chachia has received several grants and awards, including the 2024 Sheikh Zayed Book Award, the Young Researcher Award in History (2020), and the Ibn Battuta Award for Travel Literature (2015) in the category of studies and manuscript editing.

Rubén González Cuerva

(PhD Autonomous University of Madrid, 2010) is Permanent Scientist at the Spanish National Research Council (CSIC). He has been postdoctoral fellow at the National University of Salta (Argentina), Marie Curie Fellow at the German Historical Institute of Rome, Juan de la Cierva Postdoctoral Researcher at the CSIC, and associate lecturer at the Autonomous University of Madrid and the Complutense University. Currently, he directs the DIPLOINMED project, which analyses cross-confessional and global diplomacy in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries as well as the establishment of diplomatic relations between the Spanish Monarchy and Muslim polities.

Andrzej Drozd

is an orientalist, a faculty member of the Centre for Eastern European Studies at the University of Warsaw, Poland. He is the author of fundamental, interdisciplinary works on the religious literature and culture of the Polish-Lithuanian Tatars. In his works, he focuses on tracing the sources of the historical culture of this community and on the issues of cultural integration of the Tatars with the Christian population of the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth. His research concerns in particular the adaptation of biblical traditions and texts to the Muslim writing of the Tatars, as well as the epigraphy and sepulchral culture, mosque architecture and perishing historical religious rituals. His research also includes Islamic art and epigraphy, as well as the connections between the historical culture of the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth and the artistic traditions of the Muslim East.

Ana Echevarría

is Professor of Medieval History at the Universidad Nacional de Educación a Distancia in Madrid (Spain). She holds a PhD from the University of Edinburgh. Her main research focus is the relations between Christianity and Islam in the Iberian Peninsula, with an emphasis on issues such as polemics, conversion, Mudejars, and the assimilation of Christian communities by Islam in the Early Middle Ages, trying to set the Iberian Peninsula in a broader Mediterranean context. She has been Invited Fellow in several universities and research centres in the US and Europe and is now leading the project "Religious Minorities and Specialized Labour" (funded by the Spanish Ministry of Innovation).

Emir O. Filipović

is Associate professor of medieval history at the University of Sarajevo, Bosnia and Herzegovina. His research so far has been focused on the study of early Ottoman expansion in the Balkans, medieval chivalry and courtly culture, heraldry, as well as the political, cultural and religious history of Europe and Bosnia in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. He has authored several monograph studies on the relations between the Bosnian Kingdom and the Ottoman Empire, the construction of dynastic identity and chivalry in late medieval Bosnia. His latest publication is a textbook on “Late medieval South-east Europe between Latin Christianity, Eastern Orthodoxy, and Ottoman Islam” published by Hagen University Press.

Borja Franco Llopis

is Professor of Art History at the UNED (Spain), and member of the Young Academy of Spain and Young Academy of Europe. His research is devoted to the visual and literary representation of the otherness in Europe. He has published some books such as: Pintando al converso. La imagen del morisco en la península ibérica (1492–1614) (Cátedra, 2019) and Imágenes del islam y fiesta pública en la corte portuguesa. De la Unión Ibérica al terremoto de Lisboa (Trea, 2021). He has been a Visiting Scholar in prestigious universities such as Harvard, Columbia, NYU and UC Berkeley.

Mercedes García-Arenal

Research Professor at the CSIC (Spanish National Research Council) in Madrid. Honorary Degree of Doctor of Humane Letters (University of Chicago, 2022) and Spanish National Research Award (Ministerio de Cultura, 2019), Member of The Academia Europea and of the Scientific Council of the European Research Council, Mercedes is until March 2026 PI Coordinator of the ERC-Synergy “EuQu” (European Quran) project, was also PI of a previous ERC Advanced Grant, “CORPI”. She is a cultural and religious historian specialised in religious minorities on which she has many publications, such as Ahmad al-Mansur (1578–1603): The Beginnings of Modern Morocco (Oxford, 2009); with Fernando Rodríguez Mediano, The Orient in Spain. Converted Muslims, The Forged Lead Books of Granada and the Rise of Orientalism (Leiden, 2013); and with Rafael Benítez Sánchez-Blanco, The Inquisition Trial of Jeronimo de Rojas, a Morisco of Toledo (1601–1603), (Leiden, 2022); she also edited other books with Gerard Wiegers, The Expulsion of the Moriscos from Spain: A Mediterranean Diaspora (Leiden, 2014); Polemical Encounters: Polemics between Christians, Jews and Muslims in Iberia and beyond (University Park, 2019); and The Iberian Qur’an: From the Middle Ages to the Modern Time (Berlin, 2022). Her better known book, written with Gerard Wiegers, is Un hombre en tres mundos (Madrid, 1999) or A man of Three Worlds. Samuel Pallache, a Moroccan Jew in Catholic and Protestant Europe (Baltimore, Johns Hopkins 2003) translated into Arabic, Italian, Dutch and Hebrew.

Mattia Guidetti

is Associate Professor in Islamic art history and archaeology at the University of Bologna. His research focuses on the early Islamic period, with a specific emphasis on interplay between late antique churches and early mosques in the Syrian region, as well as on the reception of Islamic objects in early modern Europe. He published In the shadow of the church. The building of mosques in early medieval Syria (Brill 2017) and, more recently, Trofei turcheschi sulla frontiera adriatica. Oggetti ottomani nella Marca pontificia, 1684–1723 (Viella 2023).

Elias Kolovos

is Research Director with a specialization in Ottoman History at the Institute of Historical Research of the National Hellenic Research Foundation, in Athens, Greece. He is the elected Secretary of the Board of the International Association for Ottoman Social and Economic History. He has written, edited, and coedited 20 books and over 80 papers in Greek and international publications and journals. His research interests include the Mediterranean economic history, the history of the insular worlds, the history of the frontiers, rural and environmental history, as well as the spatial history and the legacies of the Ottoman Empire.

Ognjen Krešić

PhD, is a Research Associate at the Institute for Balkan Studies of the Serbian Academy of Sciences and Arts (Belgrade, Republic of Serbia). He is a historian whose primary research examines the cultural, religious, and social practices and the legal status of non-Muslims in the Ottoman Balkans (16th–18th centuries), with a particular emphasis on Christian Orthodox monasticism and monastic economy. He is the author of the monograph Hilandar Monastery and the Eastern Balkans in the 18th Century: Cultural and Economic Ties (Belgrade, 2021; in Serbian).

Tijana Krstić

(PhD University of Michigan, 2004) is Associate Professor at the Department of Historical Studies at Central European University in Vienna, Austria. She specializes in religious and intellectual history of the early modern Ottoman Empire, focusing on developments in early modern Sunni Islam as well as inter-confessional relations within Mediterranean and Eurasian contexts. She is the author of Contested Conversions to Islam (Stanford University Press, 2011), and co-editor with Derin Terzioğlu of Historicizing Sunni Islam in the Ottoman Empire, c. 1450–c. 1750 (Brill, 2020) and Entangled Confessionalizations? (Gorgias Press, 2022).

Naz Defne Kut

is a PhD candidate and a Teaching and Research Assistant at Koç University in the History of Art Program. She received her B.A. in History from Boğaziçi University and her M.A. from Koç University with a thesis on the Battle of Lepanto in Italian painting. With support from Fondazione Giorgio Cini and ARIT fellowships, she conducted research in Italian archives and museums. Her PhD focuses on early modern Venetian prints representing the Ottoman Empire in broadsheets and cheap prints, exploring how political tensions were visualized through allegory and satire between 1571 and 1699.

Ana Cabrera Lafuente is a Museum Curator who has worked at the Museo Nacional de Artes Decorativas and Museo del Traje in Madrid. Her field of research includes historical textiles and dress and the history of the decorative arts museums in Spain, mostly participating in research projects. Among her grants, she held a Marie S-Curie Fellowship at the V&A between 2016 and 2018. In 2019, she co-curated an exhibition about fashion and fashion journals in Spain. Her last books as co-editor are Silk, Fabric, Fibre and Fashion (2021) and Collecting Spain. Collecting Spanish Decorative Arts in Britain and Spain (2022).

Helena Lahoz

Graduated in Art History by the University of Valencia and Master in Art History and Islamic Archaeology by the University of Bamberg, she has joined the Corps of Curators of State Museums of Spain in 2021, holding her position at the Department of Medieval Antiquities of the National Archaeological Museum of Madrid (MAN). Her research focuses on Islamic material culture, processes of cultural reception and exchange, historical collecting, and critical, inclusive and gender museology.

Alicia Miguélez

is Assistant Professor of Medieval Art History at the NOVA University in Lisbon (Portugal). Her research interests include medieval visual culture, technical art history and the reception of the Middle Ages in later times. She has recently co-curated the film series Light and Shadow. Representations of the Middle Ages in Cinema (Lisbon, 2022; Madrid, 2023–2024; Tokyo, 2024) and has co-edited, with Erika Loic and Felipe Brandi, the book La Edad Media proyectada. El pasado medieval ibérico en la creación audiovisual en lenguas portuguesa y española (Iberoamericana Vervuert, 2024).

Elena Paulino-Montero

Ph.D. (2015, Universidad Complutense de Madrid) is Associate Professor of Art History at UNED (Madrid, Spain). Her research focuses on the artistic patronage of the nobility and monarchy in late medieval Castile and on the artistic exchanges between Castile, al-Andalus, and the European Christian kingdoms.

Filiz Çakır Phillip

is an Independent Curator and Scholar of Islamic Art History. She holds a D.Phil. from the Institute of Art History at the Freie Universität Berlin. Çakır Phillip worked as curator at the Aga Khan Museum in Toronto (2013–2022), and at the Museum für Islamische Kunst in Berlin (2006–2012). She has curated numerous exhibitions, most recently Lustre and Luxe from Islamic Spain: Liquid Frontiers and Entangled Worlds (2023) and Hidden Stories: Books Along the Silk Roads (2022) with Prof. Suzanne Conklin Akbari, and authored several books, including Syrian Living: Medieval to Modern (2022) with Dr. Anke Scharrahs. Çakır Phillip served as a board member of the Board of Trustees of the Association of Art Museum Curators & AAMC Foundation in New York (2021–2023).

Gabriel Pirický

is an Islamologist, Turcologist and Arabist based as a Senior Research Fellow at the Institute of Oriental Studies of the Slovak Academy of Sciences in Bratislava, Slovakia. After his graduation in Prague (Charles University) and London (SOAS) he has published and lectured extensively both in Slovakia and Czechia. His main fields of activity include Islam in Turkey and in Central Europe as well as history of the Middle East. He is the author of several publications such as Turkey: A Short History (2006, in Czech) and Islam in Turkey (2004, in Slovak). He is also the chairman of the Slovak Oriental Society.

Bruno Pomara

is an Associate Professor at the University of Valencia. He has been visiting scholar at the universities of La Sapienza – Roma, Federico II – Naples, Nantes, Ca' Foscari – Venice, Cagliari, ZRS Koper and Trieste. In 2011 he was awarded with the Young Researcher Prize by the FEHM and in 2016 with the Prize for the Religious History by the Istituto Sangalli. He has published three monographies: Bandolerismo, violencia y justicia en la Sicilia barroca (CSIC, 2011); Rifugiati. I moriscos e l'Italia (FUP, 2017) (Spanish translation Comares, 2022); Impresiones diplomáticas. La revuelta de las Alpujarras vista por los embajadores venecianos (Tirant Lo Blanch, 2022).

Luis F. Bernabé Pons

is Professor of Arabic and Islamic Studies (University of Alicante). He has been Visiting Professor at the University of Algiers, Chercheur invité at the École des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales in Paris, Norman McColl Lecturer at the University of Cambridge, and Biruté Ciplijauskaitė Fellow at the University of Wisconsin–Madison (USA). Director of the Journal Sharq Al-Andalus. Estudios Mudéjares y Moriscos. He has devoted most of his work to the cultural and religious life of Muslims living under Christian Rule (Mudejars and Moriscos), both in Spain and in North Africa. He has also published several works on religious conversion, religious polemic, Islamic hidden heritage in Spain, the image of Islam in the West, Spanish heritage in Algiers and Tunis, and Arabic and Spanish Literature.

Ivana Čapeta Rakić

is an Associate Professor at the University of Split, Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, Department of Art History. Her research focuses on visual culture from the late Middle Ages and the early modern period, particularly the iconography of the eastern Adriatic coast and former Venetian territories. She approaches artworks within a broader comparative and interdisciplinary framework, considering their geopolitical, cultural, and religious contexts. She has participated in numerous European and national research initiatives. In 2022, she received an award for excellence in the Humanities.

Kate Randazzo

is a PhD Candidate in History at the University of Chicago, where she studies early modern Iberia, North Africa, and the Mediterranean world. Her research in Spain and Morocco has been supported by the Center for International Social Science Research and the American Institute for Maghrib Studies.

Magnus Ressel

is currently Interim Professor of Early Modern History at the University of Heidelberg, Germany. His research centers on the early modern period, with a particular focus on cultural, economic, social, religious, and maritime history. He is especially interested in Europe's entanglements within global developments. A key aspect of his work explores relations across the religious and cultural fault line in the broader Mediterranean region. His dissertation examines the complex relationships—at times conflict-ridden, at times cooperative—between the Maghreb states (the “Barbary corsairs”) and the Netherlands, Denmark, and the Hanseatic cities from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century.

Amadeo Serra

Graduate in Geography and History MA (Universitat de València), PhD in History: Art History (Università di Bologna), now is Full Professor of Medieval

Art at the Department of Art History in the Universitat de València. His main research interests are late medieval and Renaissance architecture, art of the Crown of Aragon in an European context; art, architecture and cultural landscapes in the Mediterranean centres. His present research project is titled “Cultural Landscape, built and represented” (PID2021-127338NB-I00) funded by MCIN/AEI/10.13039/501100011033/ and by European Union-FEDER.

Charlotte Colding Smith

completed her PhD at the University of Melbourne under the supervision of Charles Zika. This work resulted in the monograph Images of Islam, 1453–1600: Turks in Germany and Central Europe (London, 2014). She subsequently collaborated on projects at the University of Mannheim and, from 2016 to 2020, worked as a curatorial and research assistant at the German Maritime Museum, Bremerhaven, Germany, where she is a senior expert fellow. From 2021 to 2025 she was a lecturer and researcher in art history at the University of Bonn. She has held fellowships at the British Museum, London; Herzog Anton Ulrich Museum, Braunschweig; the Herzog August Bibliothek, Wolfenbüttel; the University of Vienna; and the Getty Museum, Los Angeles.

Laura Stagno

is Full Professor of Early Modern History of Art at the University of Genoa. Her main fields of research are Genoese art and patronage in the Early Modern period, and iconography (which she teaches at the undergraduate, postgraduate and doctoral level). Her activities comprise the participation in a number of Italian and international research projects (including the COST Action Islamic Legacy: Narratives East, West, South, North of the Mediterranean). She has published extensively on the Doria family’s artistic commissions, and on the representation of Islamic alterity (she recently co-curated the exhibition Ottomani, barbareschi e mori nell’arte a Genova).

Katarzyna K. Starczewska is a Tenured Scientist at the Institute of Languages and Cultures of the Mediterranean and Near East, Centre for Human and Social Sciences – Spanish National Research Council (CCHS-CSIC) in Madrid. Her research explores inter-cultural encounters, religious controversy, and knowledge transmission in early modern Spain, Italy, and the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth. She has published extensively on Latin Qur’anic translations and multilingual Islamic texts in Europe. Her monograph, Latin Translation of the Qur’an commissioned by Egidio da Viterbo (Diskurse der Arabistik, Otto Harrassowitz Verlag, 2018), presents a 950-page critical edition and study of this Latin Qur’an, featuring comparative analyses, detailed annotations, and previously unpublished glosses. She is the editor of the forthcoming collective volume Multilingual Islamic Manuscripts in Eastern and Western Europe: Languages, Scripts, and Messages, which will appear in The European Qur'an series (De Gruyter).

Ana Struillou

is a Past and Present Fellow at the Institute of Historical Research (London) interested in all things material and mobile. She is also an associated member of the Institut d'Histoire Moderne et Contemporaine, in Paris. Her work explores the movement of artefacts and commodities between the Ottoman and non-Ottoman Maghrib, the Iberian Peninsula, and the French Monarchy across the early sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Her work has appeared in the Mediterranean Historical Review among other academic venues, as well as in various public history fora.

Ferenc Tóth

(1967), Senior Research Fellow of the Institute of History at the Research Centre for the Humanities (Budapest). He got his PhD degree at the Sorbonne University (1995) and holds a diploma from the Institute of Oriental Languages and Civilizations (Paris) as well. He also defended a thesis of habilitation to direct research at the Sorbonne University (2003) and a thesis of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences (2014). His research areas: history of Turkish Wars in Hungary (17th-18th Centuries), French-Hungarian connections, Hungarian military history, activity of Hungarian agents in French service, Hungarian emigration in Ottoman Empire.

Evrin Türkçelik is Associate Professor of History at the Social Sciences University of Ankara. He specializes in Ottoman Mediterranean policy during the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries, with a particular focus on Ottoman-Spanish relations in the Early Modern period, especially in the context of diplomacy, maritime strategy, and political networks. Among his publications are "El Imperio otomano y la política de alianzas: las relaciones francootomanas en el tránsito del siglo XVI al XVII" (Hispania, 2015) and "The 'Reluctant' Admiral: Damad Halil Pasha and The Ottoman Navy (1595–1598)" (Mediterranea Ricerche Storiche, 2023).

Antonio Urquizar-Herrera

Ph.D. (2000, Universidad de Córdoba) is Full Professor of Art History at UNED (Madrid, Spain). He has published several books on early modern Iberian art, including Admiration and Awe. Morisco Buildings and Identity Negotiations in Early Modern Spanish Historiography (Oxford University Press, 2017).

Asim Zubčević is an Associate Professor at the Faculty of Islamic Studies, University of Sarajevo. His main research interest is social and intellectual history of Ottoman Bosnia.